Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Modern China: Thirty-One Short Essays on Subjects Which Illustrate the Present Condition of the Country The question has been asked, What have been the chief causes of that still increasing energy of the Chinese race which enables them to absorb other nations and always be found conquering in the struggle for existence? The population tables shew that they did not grow at any time beyond about 60 millions until, at the end of the 17th century, the great body politic began to assume gigantic proportions. This growth has continued in the face of famines, wars and pestilences, and it now causes that overflow which in the United States and Australia occasions a serious political disquietude. The causes appear to be the absence of vexatious interference with the people by the government, the extension of foreign trade, the effects of stimulus given to education by the examinations, and the spread of emigration. As to the government, the two reigns Kang-hi and Chien-lung both lasted sixty years and the wars undertaken were then always successful. The laws were ameliorated, the poll tax, which acted as a check on population, was abolished, and the people were allowed to have their own way to such an extent that it may be said that China is democratic, while in theory ruled by a despotic government. The upward movement of population was delayed in the Kang-hi period by the wars with Wu Sankwei and Koxinga, but as soon as universal tranquillity was restored the increase indicated by the census returns shewed that political peace is the great thing required by the Chinese race to ensure its prosperity. Another powerful cause is...
